

Quality Policy

Stirling Maynard has always made quality a primary objective and it retains a commitment to continually improve and undertake all of its work to the highest standards.

Internal systems to control and monitor quality have been developed and applied throughout the years and, in 1993, a policy was adopted to assess and maintain the Quality Management System on a more formal basis through Third Party Certification and subsequent Surveillance, all in accordance with the requirements of BS EN ISO 9001. Stirling Maynard are also actively working towards re-assessment to the 2015 version of the Standard. This enables the Company to demonstrate full compliance with a recognised standard.

The resulting Quality Management System is both practical and effective and incorporates extensive facilities to assist with the detection, correction and prevention of non-conformances. We aim to obtain the support of all our staff to operate and continually improve the Quality Management System and to demonstrate to them the real benefits to our Clients and our Company. All of this confirms our Policy of continuing to improve our services, to perform to the highest possible standards and to deliver top quality service to our Clients.
